SPECTACULAR BLAZE AT THE HOTEL RICHELIEU YESTERDAY.

The Latest Work of the Flames Proved What Might Have Been a Disastrous Fire—Thousands of Infants' Worth of Costly Clothings in Danger—Further Origin of the Blaze—Assessable Loss—One of the Employes not Aware of the Peril.

The Hotel Richelieu, on Michigan avenue, between Jackson and Van Buren streets, suffered a small but thoroughly blaze at noon yesterday. In the rear of the building, which is five stories in front, there are add to with from the basement to the roof three stories of brick for the purpose of hotel purposes, number of eight-wood for the and stairs, number of eight-wood for the apartments of all and light to many large rooms, and the most of occupied now for the range of guests above. The fire origi- nated in the basement shaft in a most pe- culiar way. There is or was a wooden awning running from side to side in the shaft and over the top, and this is secured each year according to the custom made by the hotel managers, James Schreiber & Co., weight the iron works from the ceiling. The cause to the kitchen that be some-ways was something was wrong by the dropping of a piece of burning wood upon a dough, and, leaving that this was not according to the usual order of things, sent word to the office. An immediate in- vestigation resulted in the discovery that the roof-woven over the basement on the fifth floor was in flames. The blaze had at- tained a good headway and was looking through the roof and leaping through the glazed work down into the basement in all. The attendants throughout the house acted with commendable promptitude and activity, and the guests were quickly out of the hall that a few rooms in the fifth floor were in danger from the flames. There was no danger to any of the guests, however, and only a few of the more excited endeavored to pack up their effects.

In the meantime the fire made quite a show- ing to the people passing on the streets and to the occupants of the adjacent buildings. In the rear of the building, which fronts on Jackson street, there are only two stories, and these are occupied principally by the kitchen and dining-room. These rooms were soon filled with dense clouds of black smoke, and the guests were hurried out with little thought for any- thing except to escape, and fortunately no one was injured. Nevertheless, considerable excitement prevailed for a few minutes, and the crowds on the streets and in the adjacent buildings could not help noticing the commotion at the hotel. The fire- men were soon on the scene, and the flames were extinguished with little trouble. The damage done by the fire and water will not exceed $5,000, and will be fully covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed to have been caused by the ignition of the wooden awning by a spark from the kitchen fire. The building is owned by Mrs. Mary Ann Brayton, of Boston, and is valued at $100,000. It is also stated that the building and contents were covered by insurance to a large percentage of their value.

NAMES OF THE CRAFT UNDER FLAG AT ATLANTIC.

The Boats Carried Off to Four Wooden Ships—The Board of Visitors Under Commodore—Officers Likely to Go by the Administration—The Navy Alert Project Being Looked to the Rigging Condemned—A Visit of the Irish Societies.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 13.—(Special.)—With yesterday closed the most brilliant week known for many years. The ability of social lions over a year makes the effort necessary to open its eyes to gaze in every direction at the new things that have invaded its solitude and quiet. This is during commencement week at the Naval Academy. A good many people come to see the class of forty-four receive their diplomas. Among the visitors were ex-senators from the West. In addition to this, the an- nual social meeting of the brotherly friend- ship brought a large number of naval officers, from their stations here to the Acad- emy. Secretary Tracy and a party of cab- inet men from Washington—official and social—to the last day's doings. The official Board of Visitors had elected a conference beneath the boughs of the hospitable naval people stationed at the academy. The duties of the board are particularly. They are not split up into committees with long-drawn names, but it is supposed that the commanding board from Atlantic coast to meet and go through the motions of doing something for the good of the navy. Something for the benefit of the board is there is nothing for the government connected with the board to be taken a good view of the academy buildings, to the academic buildings, to get apart for the use of the board, and to be kept quiet, comfort- able, and to be kept from the public. Then there is a banquet at the end of the week, and the board of visitors has finished its work. Then they go back to their homes and tell their friends how much they have done for the navy, and how much they have done for the navy, and how much they have done for the navy. Then they go back to their homes and tell their friends

Bonnet Shapes.—Black cloth velvets are the fashionable choice with accompaniments for trimming in Cluny lace, and small flowers, dark blue and scarlets prove the most useful. Many spring bonnets a number of light-colored bonnets—dark-red, gray, or brown—are seen in the park, and these will be still more generally used during the summer in the country. "Pearl cloth," the fabric for cloth, is recommended for ladies in English resorts, and there are also embossed and diagonal cloths that find favor. The English style of making the bonnets is still much in vogue, the position being, short crown, close, and crescent. The ladies in society seldom wear anything depending for its beauty on its fit, but instead of the close bonnet and high crowning order the rolled sections are worn, to show a white lace or plaid chemisette, and white gants de suede, or a light scarf tied in a shoulder knot, to soften hastily a small coat of plaid or of figured matting to each, but to wear over all the boy and waist line. English ladies are showing for morning wear hats much smaller than the usual position, being longer and of even height all round, without close behind, and with seams around the crown of seven cords, and to this is added a bright enamel cloth rim of the cloth brown or English pink. Misses and small girls wear hats a position of a pinched behind, made with a position of a pinched behind, and a cap with round crown and rim made of the cloth of the hats. Slight lines of gold colors and cuffs are the triggers for evening. The hair is worn in a compromise, and a medium to the new position, and a medium to the new position, and a medium to the new position

WASHINGTON PARK MEET.

SUPERINTENDENT ALEXANDER PUTTING IN THEIR APPEARANCE.

The Hundred and Thirty-six at the Track Saturday and Others Expected to Arrive This Morning—Fourty-two Names in the Race—Early Speculations—Order of the Good Flyers—Lively and Lucrative Wrestle at Pittsburg—Athletic Contest at St. Louis.

The vast approach of the Washington Park meeting is bringing the horsepeople to this city. There were 136 at the track yesterday and many more are expected to arrive this morning. The St. Louis races close Wednesday and all the horses will then be here. Friday of that week is the last day for entries, and it is probable that the closing specialty of the club will be overweight, where the best horse in training will be asked to carry the most weight. Entries will be received at the office of the association, Secretary Alexander has had quite a few applications for entry blanks, and it is expected that the grounds and the club organization will be in full working order by the time the meeting opens. Secretary Alexander will be in his office at the track every day from 9 o'clock in the morning until 5 in the afternoon, and he will be glad to receive visits from horsemen who may be in town. He is desirous that no horse shall start at the Lake Park meeting which is not entered for the Washington Park meeting, and he will be glad to receive entries from their owners.

Among the horses now on the grounds are Dunton, winner of the Kentucky Derby, and Young Jim, of the Latonia Derby, and Young Jim, of the Latonia Derby, and Young Jim, of the Latonia

Queen Victoria is reported to have observed at Oakridge Park, N. J., where a picnic for the benefit of the Chicago Association was held, and where Miss Kent was one of the leading attractions.

Cardinal Gibbons preached to an immense congregation at the Baltimore Cathedral yesterday. He referred to the recent visit to Rome, and expressed gratification at his return to the Monumental City.

On the London Stock Exchange during the week there was a general cessation from work, and dealings were limited. English railways were weak, all kinds suffering a material decline. American railroads showed a tendency to decline throughout the week, operators being discouraged by the continued depression in New York and the delay in the appearance of the expected improvement. The Paris bourse was inactive. Business on the Berlin bourse was good until the end of the week, when the news of the Emperor's illness checked dealings. A latter authority, however, was declared toward the close Saturday.

The Rev. Burt Wilkins, pastor of Bethesda Church, before beginning his sermon yesterday morning said: "It is an advantage to the religion of Christ at the church that lawyers bring counsel at our State Capital looking to a strict observance of Sunday as a holy day. Whatever and wherever the church has required the halls of legislation she has left her power visible. But upon entering the public arena here upon her ethics of rivalry. She has been a participant in many hot prizes, but I tell you it is necessary to the genius of the Gospel of Christ. He did not leave us the political world with which to act on. His kingdom is the hearts and lives of men. Wherever James is to appear in Shakespeare's time will James become a politician. Jesus will come because a politician. Jesus will come because a politician. Jesus will come because

SAINTS BLESS THE MILITARY AND MAKE A SPEECH.

He Asserts the People's Right to Speak in Public—Queen Victoria Consents to Receive the State Robes in Westminster Abbey—Gladstone Leaving Trouville to Attend Parnell—England Refuses to Listen to Parker's Suggestions Regarding the Egyptian Convention.

LONDON, June 12.—In consequence of the Government's prohibition forbidding the meeting announced to be held at Dublin to-day on more military force was drafted into action to enable the authorities to enforce the proclamation. Michael Davitt visited the authorities, however, and advocated the meeting. Between 20,000 persons at Dublin while the military were marching for him. He afterward spoke at length. He asserted the people's right of meeting in public, and said that if the people were armed they would then with the hard-earned freedom which was their birthright. Mr. Davitt denied having counseled, in his recent speech at Mitchelstown, any further resort to physical force. The people being without weapons, which action would have been criminal folly. He had only encouraged them to assert themselves, while the forces were actively carrying out a policy of coercion, and to show every reasonable reluctance. Such an audience would win the sympathy of a majority of the people of Great Britain, whose hearts were on the side of generous fighting. Postmaster Gold, whose health has lately improved, will soon leave for a trip to the Black Hills.

A notification to the Common Council from the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners that the Board has appointed Thomas Hogan, Jr., a member of the Board, vice Thomas Hogan, deceased, was received and placed on file.

A large number of churches yesterday held special services for the children, a custom which has gained great favor of late years. Those most prominent in the observance were the Methodist Episcopal, Presbyterian, Baptist, Lutheran, Congregational, etc.

Saturday night an Blue Island Dutch of Dr. Will Baldwin street, was going to West Madison street, intending to take a train for another part and both her grandchildren, aged respectively 4 and 6 years, were drowned. Mrs. Schmidt had been a resident of Chicago for many years, and was well known in the Dutch settlement on the West Side. Deputy Coroner Hoke, to whom the case was reported, decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

The visiting members of the Boston Club, who left for the East on [illegible] to participate in baseball games with the Princeton, Yale and Harvard clubs, were accompanied as far as Toledo by members of the Chicago Club, the latter party consisting of about twenty. The visitors played a game with the Toledo club, which resulted in a victory for the latter by a score of 7 to 6. The Chicagos left for the East [illegible] and will be followed by their friends and the baseball fans with as many hearts.

At the regular meeting Saturday afternoon of the Order of the U. O. D. held in the Masonic Temple, Judge Francis Adams, Grand U. Master of Hampton, N. Y., was unanimously elected a President of the Order. Under a constitution and laws as amended at the late meeting in Toronto, the Presidency is to be a permanent office, and the incumbent, especially the present one, will have more to do than heretofore. The election took place Thursday. Next Thursday afternoon the Order will inaugurate the Judge in the Presidency, and the ceremonies will be held in the Washington Auditorium.

For some months Mr. Lovejoy, the proprietor of the Waverly House at No. 120 Dearborn street, has been erecting small annex of thirty-three feet each, and in the rear thereof, to connect the old and new buildings, he has suggested to the property committee and the park engineer to be allowed to [illegible] Saturday night for hotel and not to be used [illegible] Monday morning. Mr. Lovejoy [illegible] the [illegible] Supreme Court.
